STEVE LEES

OPENING: Fri 29 May 6-8pm

DATES: 28 May - 11 June 2026

Developed during an art residency in Onishi, Japan, this body of work reflects a series of encounters between materials, place, and process. Each form draws from the town's relationship with rock and everyday building materials. Designed as vessels that hold nature, the works mirror the way nature is present throughout the town, embedded in buildings and structures. Fired in an anagama kiln for four days, flame and ash move across the surface of each work, producing subtle shifts in tone and texture. These works interpret place through materiality, holding relationships between objects, nature, and their surroundings.
